

BRUNEI

From the Age of Commerce to the 21st Century

Marie-Sybille de Vienne

Contents

| | |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| List of Graphs | x |
| List of Maps | xii |
| List of Tables | xii |
| List of Figures | xiii |
| Acknowledgements | xiv |
| Foreword | xvi |
| | |
| I. PROLOGUE: BRUNEI VERSUS BORNEO | 1 |
| 1. An Apparently Unfavourable Geography | 3 |
| 2. The Best Port in West Borneo | 5 |
| 3. A Relatively Strategic Site | 11 |
| | |
| II. FROM THALASSOCRACY TO RENTIER STATE | 13 |
| 1. Introduction: Sources and Methodology | 15 |
| A. Premises and Emergence of the Bruneian Thalassocracy | 21 |
| 1. First Settlements and End of the Ice Age (40,000 BCE–600 CE) | 21 |
| 2. Brunei from Srivijaya to the Ming Dynasty (7th–15th centuries) | 29 |
| 3. The Golden Age of Brunei (1500–78) | 50 |
| B. New Commercial Routes and Internal Rivalries (1600–1905) | 61 |
| 1. The Dutch Card and Its Failure | 61 |
| 2. The Double Gap in the 18th Century | 69 |
| 3. Playing the British Card and Its Avatars (1803–1905) | 75 |

| | |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| C. From Residency to Independence (1906–84) | 93 |
| 1. Establishment of “Modern” Government and Administration (1906–41) | |
| 2. The Japanese Interlude and the End of the Residency (1942–59) | 94 |
| 3. From Internal Autonomy to Independence (1984) | 104 |
| | 115 |
| | |
| III. INDEPENDENCE AND AFTER, 1984–2014 | 129 |
| | |
| A. Political Independence | 131 |
| 1. Well-tempered Modernisation, 1984–89 | 132 |
| 2. Full Steam Ahead! (1989–99) | 140 |
| 3. Running Before the Wind and Tacking (2000–14) | 152 |
| | |
| B. From Hydrocarbon Rent to Financial Rent | 165 |
| 1. Absolute Dominance of Hydrocarbons | 166 |
| 2. Structural Trade Surplus | 179 |
| 3. Successful Regional Integration | 183 |
| | |
| C. Evaluating the Bruneian Model | 187 |
| 1. Internal and External Surpluses | 188 |
| 2. From Surplus to Assets | 191 |
| 3. An Unusual Model | 195 |
| | |
| IV. ADAT ISTIADAT AND SOCIETAL MANAGEMENT | 201 |
| 1. Seeking the Brunei Paradigm | 203 |
| | |
| A. Orang Melayu, Orang Brunei? | 205 |
| 1. Demographic Expansion | 205 |
| 2. Education as a Recent Phenomenon | 220 |
| 3. Malays = Civil Servants | 231 |
| | |
| B. Adat Istiadat | 235 |
| 1. Evolution of Royal Custom | 236 |
| 2. Opening Up of the Hierarchy (1958–2014) | 249 |
| 3. Tradition as an Instrument for Managing Society | 258 |

| | |
|----------------------------------------------------|----------------|
| X C. Melayu Islam Beraja | 261 |
| 1. The Making of History in the Service of Power | 262 |
| 2. Power at the Service of Religion—And Vice-versa | 269 |
| 3. State Ideology—But with Rule of Law | 275 |
| CONCLUSION: DURABLE CONSENSUS? | 283 |
| APPENDICES | 289 |
| 1. Weights, Measures and Currency | 291 |
| 2. Lexicon | 293 |
| 3. Thematic Bibliography | 303 |
| Index | 331 |